WAB - Web Authoring Bridge is a metadata management and mobility tool for users who work in an Asp.net environment. WAB provides improved ways to collaborate on a rich XML web site by facilitating document manipulation and collaboration throughout the workflow, including version control, web authoring, RSS feed management and chat rooms, or chatbots. Best practices: WAB stores all file activity, including the authors of a change, version history, notes, versions, and a record of the last file changed. Document outlines and outlines stored in WAB are not the same as in your files! The outlines as stored in WAB are a data structure built upon the offsets stored in the XML (mostly depending on the \r characters). Check your outlines for the values you expect (e.g., inbox, trash, in browser, and others). If you're using custom files, no new outlines should have been created, but you can detect such by looking for a value which is not expected (e.g.,). Namespace/Alias I have an alias/namespace "C:\WAB\spa" under which I contain all.wab files. I can then move items around (e.g., bounce to WAB) or delete them (my files). Powerful Features: WAB is designed to replace all your local storage and filesystems, and as such has a great deal of functionality. WAB is tightly integrated with Microsoft SharePoint via its SharePoint Provider Interface (SPPI). As a result, WAB access and modify the SharePoint list schema, fields and the databases of SharePoint via that interface. A: Calais can do this on a per user basis. From a WAB, the WAB provides an entry in the ~/.wab file with all the information for the user on this entry. There are two kinds of entry: 1) Contacts : a user can save a group of contacts, for example, his e-mail address or his home directory. 2) Addressbooks : a user can save several addressbooks, for example, his work e-mail addressbook and his home addressbook. There is also an entry in the ~/.wab file with the signature of the WAB and a list of the.wab file exported by it. If you want to recover your contacts or addressbooks, you must first obtain the ~/.wab file of these entries. Then you can either recover all of them, one by one, or you can use the libwab tool to extract the information exported by the WAB in ldif format, which can be used to create new entries, send email, or add to a AD.
