■ ABOUT EPISODES & SEASONS■

Elden Ring's story will be divided into two parts: the seasons and the episodes. Episodes are short-term stories of no more than five stages that occur periodically. Daily tasks and other events to be performed will be distributed to you in a timely manner. Seasons are long-term stories spanning throughout multiple episodes. Only at the beginning of a season is a new story starts. It's possible to visit all the parts of the season in the same area. A season can contain maximum of six parts, each of which can hold up to five stages.

Elden Ring is an RPG (Role-Playing Game) and it is geared towards the people who crave and hate the turn-based action of games, and seeking peace among a large group of people. At the same time, it is aimed to the people who seek a new story in a large and world, and a new adventure from a fantasy world.

To other words, it is a game that combines the 'action role-playing' and 'an RPG' genres which are always 'a long term game' within a beautiful world.

• An Epic Drama Born from a Myth A multilayered story told in fragments. An epic drama in which the various thoughts of the characters intersect in the Lands Between. • Allows you to Feel the Presence of OthersWhile many people go on vacation and relax in the destination of their choice, businesses commonly resort to offering employees more vacation hours to balance work and leisure. After all, not having an emergency is time that can be spent on work productivity. Although some companies offer their employees 5 or even 10 vacation days a year, the best way to go for many is a generous 50 days to vacation. Why do so many companies give employees 50 days of vacation? Well, for one thing, when you think about it, 50 is actually a pretty good number. For example, 50 is a quarter of the year, which is probably the length of the average vacation. However, more importantly, there are 2 reasons that 50 vacation days makes sense for most employees: It's a Magic Number Typically, 50 days or a week off is more than enough time to take vacation, regardless of one's lifestyle and the demands of the job. More importantly, however, is that 50 days or one week of vacation can never be enough for everyone. If one employee goes on vacation for 2 weeks and then takes another week or two off in the spring, the company will still be saying to the employee that there is not enough vacation time to go around. Vacation is a Mutually Beneficial Activity Finally, there is the issue of "crowding out" the time that employees spend working if they are on vacation. Most people spend around 40 hours a week working for the average company and most work days are 8 hours long. If an employee is on vacation for 2 weeks, they will essentially be taking 20 hours out of the 40 hours that they spend working. Fortunately, it doesn't take long to return from vacation, and the problem can easily be solved by creating new vacation time, which can be granted automatically to all employees during the second week of vacation. Although no vacation policy is 100% perfect, offering 50 days of vacation to employees is the highest number that is actually effective.The present disclosure relates to image forming apparatuses and processes for forming images. Generally, image forming apparatuses are operated in an environment in which temperature and humidity are high. Therefore

The Cool-Cat Cruiser, launched in June 2014, has been named a Top-20 Most Sustainable Ship in the US by the maritime law firm Toulmin Tort. On November 3rd, the vessel was formally named the Cool Cat Cruiser in Jacksonville, Florida. The ship is an example of how electric power can cut fuel consumption and emissions when compared with traditional propulsion. Fincantieri, the shipyard that built the vessel, says that it will capture up to 75 percent of the energy required to run the ship through renewable energy sources on board the vessel. That's an impressive feat considering it only took 22 days to build the vessel using a high-tech design that would fit in an old factory building. "The Cool Cat Cruiser is a pioneer in marine and clean tech engineering and will help reduce harmful CO_2 emissions, minimize our dependence on foreign oil and improve our operational efficiency. We applaud the efforts to make this happen," says Steve Zarillo, President and CEO of Toulmin Tort, to Boat International. On board, the vessel utilizes power from three regenerative electric drive units housed in the bow of the vessel. This unique power source is almost entirely electric, making it zero-emission and virtually silent. This means that the vessel emits no emissions at all and can travel at speeds in excess of 30 knots, thus making it the fastest ship in the world. Fincantieri says the vessel is powered by three electric drive units. With the electric drive units alone, the vessel is capable of generating electricity using only recycled water, which is up to 75% of the energy needed to operate the vessel. The vessel's electric drive systems are comprised of three electric drive units, which generate electricity on board the vessel and are coupled to the rudders, bow thrusters and stern thrusters. They are also powered by a regenerative electric drive and can be rotated to change direction. Fincantieri says the vessel was designed to be environmentally friendly and its modular propulsion system was the first of its kind. The vessel is built to industry standards at the fully automated Fincantieri shipyard in Jacksonville, Florida. It is the only shipbuilder with a fully automated, fully integrated shipyard capable of producing a ship to build in a matter of 22 days, from keel laying to launch. Toulmin Tort said in its report: "Fincantieri demonstrated
