On Sunday, November 13th, the FIFA Team will be back in Cologne, Germany, to host a live stream of the first official opening ceremony. Click here for a link to the broadcast. On Sunday, FIFA 19 will continue to evolve in Ultimate Team by introducing the all-new FIFA Ultimate Team Champions Packs. These seasonal packs provide players the opportunity to enter a star-studded tournament, hosted by football's icons, to take home the ultimate rewards. The FIFA 19 Champions Packs will run from now until Tuesday, November 15th, before culminating in the release of the next batch of Ultimate Team enhancements on Thursday, November 17th. Also continuing the celebration of FIFA 19 with the finale of the FIFA 19 Ultimate Team Champions Pack Championships is the announcement of the FIFA Ultimate Team Champions pack lineup for this year's contest. The first FIFA 19 Champions pack offers the chance to win a historic piece of UEFA Champions League memorabilia. The second Champions pack will have the opportunity to win the UEFA Champions League Trophy. Players will also have the chance to win a personalized Global Champions Team with global rewards and fans will have the chance to name their real-life UCL and Champions League teams. While FIFA 19 offers a massive 1.4 billion total game-play decisions in Ultimate Team, players were encouraged to take as much of them off the table as possible. FIFA 19 introduced Real Player Motion 4 (RPM4), a groundbreaking real-time motion capture system that enables players to more accurately control the ball, as well as the pitch. The system captures the pitch in unprecedented detail to greatly enhance ball physics. Motion capture data is further leveraged to add a new element to gameplay, allowing players to control their teammates by maneuvering the ball. On top of improving player movement, enhanced ball physics, game intelligence, and new player control models, FIFA 19 also introduced Real Player Motion Plus (RPM+) to capture and evaluate pitch movement in real time. Click here for a list of changes coming to Ultimate Team in FIFA 19. The new goalkeeper control models, coupled with additional ball physics, makes it easier than ever for goalkeepers to perform complex maneuvers. The ball is more predictable and the optimal zonal distribution of the goalie is based on where the ball is going to go. A goalkeeper will also go for the ball when he has the option to do so. For more information on goalkeeper control, ball physics, and improved goalkeeper reaction time, we are happy to announce that players can now get hands
