The player action with this technology will be especially pronounced in the AI's prioritized passes, as the system will make informed choices of the pass that is most efficient for the player, and the receiver to receive the pass. A new "You're the Ref" feature will allow the referee to see defenders trying to get a last-ditch tackle onto the ball carrier before the foul. This supports action from the football pitch rather than the technical aspects of the gameplay. "With FIFA the opportunities to master any aspect of the game are endless - the accessibility and ease of which we can tap into the game's most legendary attributes allows us to unlock a world of possibilities," said Paul Melia, Head of FIFA. "By utilizing the power of motion capture in FIFA, we've been able to develop the most immersive football gaming experience yet. We believe this technology will excite and motivate players of all levels, making FIFA a singular and immersive football game for gamers of all ages." NEW FEATURE DESIGN DIRECTION: WEATHER CHANGES - Players will now be able to challenge the conditions of a match by changing the weather conditions in the matchday menu under "Match Day", as well as on their own individual broadcast game page under "Away". NEW FEATURE DESIGN DIRECTION: WEATHER CHANGES - Players will now be able to challenge the conditions of a match by changing the weather conditions in the matchday menu under “Match Day”, as well as on their own individual broadcast game page under “Away”. MATCHDAY MENU – The new “Weather Change” option will allow users to change the weather conditions of a matchday from “Automatic” to “Hot”, “Cool” or “Dry”. Once a match is selected, this change will take effect during the second half of the match. The weather conditions for the first half of the match will remain as per the “Automatic” settings.
