Family is an. TI-SmartView, TI-89/Ti-84 compatibility software,.
Example: ti-smartview -c TI-84CE-CI*.Q: Timer for file download I have a timer that checks every 3 seconds to download some photos from a webserver. Here is my timer function: var interval = setInterval(function () { connection.download(photos[index] +
"...", function (result) { console.log(result); }, function (error) { console.log(error); }); index = (index + 1) % photos.length; location.reload(true); }, 3000); Now I would like to start a timer when the user clicks a button that starts the download of a photo.
I tried doing this: $.get('./photos/' + path + '.jpg', {}, function (response) { alert(response); setTimeout(function(){ console.log('loaded'); }, 1000); }); but when I do that I dont get any alerts. If I comment the timer that checks every 3 seconds I do get an alert saying "loaded" I believe it has something to do with the refresh in the setInterval but I have tried to change it too and had no luck. A: You would need to store the request in a variable and then call location.reload(true) on click of the button.
Also, set the interval to be setTimeout's interval rather than trying to
