Overview : Nate is a janitor at an organization he has never heard of. While emptying a cart, he finds a strange jewel that he holds on to tightly for years. He then opens the jewel and the screen changes. Nate sees several different worlds connected to this world through different portals. What he has to do is to go through each of these worlds (or portals) and collect different gems in each one to open new worlds. At the same time he must beat the boss, to regain his lost memories. This will not be easy, as the different worlds are not always what they seem to be. Each world has its dangers and challenges. Who knows what Nate will find next? Features : - 4 Different modes of Game Play (Story, Time Attack, Nightmare, Endless) - 6 Missions - 5 Hours of Game Play - 60+ Levels - Over 50 Achievements - Intuitive Game Play (Just tap to move, feel free to pause) - Different Worlds - 5 Different Music Tracks - nice Background Scenes Possible: Mr.

"A rainy evening and the mood has spoiled; making it impossible to perform any...

anything! Due to a sad thing, Mr. Bree doesn't want to have any more fun and only feels like a big drain! It's evident; Mr. Bree is about to go out to face some challenges and see what's going on around him! A pretty good idea, right? In this journey to remember, Mr. Bree will need to learn a few skills and recollect the memory of his past. He will find all this and so much more while he starts to run away from the sharp, merciless feet of the big, bad wolf! "What a fun game! Very friendly and a real treat in every aspect! An ideal game for everyone" best score! You won't be disappointed by the game!-----= ABOUT

THE GAME: The Earth has been devastated by nuclear war and now, the survivors must fight for their existence day by day. A small group of people who remain alive gather on an island where they struggle to survive in the most hostile environment ever created by man.But all this changes when a group of elite soldiers landed on the island in search of the missing. They knew where this was but they could not go there. For a simple reason: each time they go near the island they are killed instantly by the nuclear radiation... That's all for now. The story will unfold over time and throughout the game. I personally am composing the soundtrack from now on, and I will take your thoughts and suggestions as long as you make them into reality in the game! THE

UPDATE!-----This is the first public release of the game. THIS DOES NOT REPRESENT THE END OF THE GAME, JUST THE BEGINNING! It does have many bugs, and many features and levels still to be added to the game. Stay with me here guys, this is a long one... I want to thank all the people that have helped me by making recommendations and sending me tips. I've worked for over a year on this game and put a lot of time and dedication into it. It's been a blast making the game, and I hope you guys will enjoy it! If you have feedback, send me a email at infinitybree@gmail.com and if I feel it is good enough, I will make it happen! Don't forget

What's new in Mr. Bree :

Bree Anderson (born July 28, 1957, as Richard Bree; died Oct 18, 2005) was an American glamour photographer, writer, and filmmaker, known for his work as Playboy Playmate of the Month in September 1982, Who's Who, and Who's Who's Amicis: Life Into the 21st Century. Bree was President and Creative Director of GoldCrest Entertainment Inc., Pentagram Entertainment and Pentagram Enterprises, Inc., and founder of the International Creative Management Center. Early life and education After Bree was born to a realtor and a dental surgeon, he grew up in Richboro Township, Pennsylvania, a small town in Huntingdon County, about ten minutes north of Philadelphia. His father showed him self-portraits as a teenager in order to motivate him to become a photographer. Bree also spent part of his childhood in Greenwich, Connecticut, where a family friend tutored him in photography. Bree took an interest in photography and began working as a freelance photographer in 1973. He was soon influenced by the celebrity photography of Marilyn Monroe and Richard Avedon. The 1975 release of the transvestite movie The Rocky Horror Picture Show and the subsequent spread of "the Denver technique", in which women would appear unexpectedly in small doses to take advantage of back projections in audiences, supposedly boosted Bree's sales. Career Bree's initial foray into the worlds of film and modeling began when he was selected by Jeannette Bruce, a Playboy Playmate of the Month, to provide the front cover photographs for Miss September

1976. He continued to work in the business and film for over 30 years. Personal life and death Bree married the model and Playboy Playmate of the Month, Linda Bozini, in 1981. They had no children. Bree and Linda were in the news when Linda was working as a "hooker" in San Francisco while Bree worked in New York City. Bree and Linda's relationship broke down in the early 1990s, though they remained legally married, and Bree eventually began a long relationship with Amber Hamilton, pictured on the cover of Playboy in July 1995. Hamilton and Bree met while she was working as an apartment manager at his business, Pentagram Entertainment. At Bree's behest, as Hamilton portrayed a 15-year-old girl who worked in a strip club in Pentagram's Who's Who, the setting was actually Bree's office in Manhattan. Hamilton, who was pregnant at the time, previously
