Nothin' But Net: is a 3D Real-time Game where you try to score as many goals as you can. The rules are simple, the court is huge, and there are just two things on the menu: shoot and goalkeeper.

Currently the game has two season and two multiplayer modes. The campaign is played in 30 short and exciting single missions, which are also the basis for the multiplayer game. Nothin' But Net supports VR and most of the mechanics have been designed with the end VR display in mind. In the campaign you can move freely in all directions and should your goalkeeper make a mistake, you have full freedom to score, simply just like in real life.

Players can also use the VR technology to peek around the court at other players. There is also two VR friendly multiplayer modes, but instead of using real players, you can use robots. The two different multi-player modes each have some variations, which are described in the switch statement of this document. Nothin' But Net: Still has a lot of features to come. Features Nothin' But Net: + VR Friendly + Cinematic + Local Multiplayer and Online Multiplayer + Random Goal + Realistic Physics + Customizable Goal Height + Multiple Goalkeepers + Different Game Types + Hoots and Shouts + 30 Single Missions Genre: Sports Category: 2D Game Platformer Subscribed to Humble Weekly Sale! Comparison of the antibiotic susceptibilities of strains of Shigella isolated in Taiwan from 1966 to 1974. Thirteen strains of Shigella isolated from patients in Taiwan during 1966-1974 were studied. The sensitivity of all strains to ampicillin, chloramphenicol, cotrimoxazole, gentamicin, nalidixic acid and tetracycline was 100%. The clinical implications of these results are discussed. A detailed study of these strains, which were examined between 1966-1973, showed that the antibiotic sensitivity of

Welcome to Gameplay TechLab Hello, everyone! We are very excited about this new season of Gameplay TechLab. We are doing a new stream format where we will be livestreaming from our new Gameplay TechLab studio in Hong Kong. Here you will get to see the studio space, our characters, and see how we bring the beautiful world of Square Enix's games to life. We look forward to meeting you there and showing off what Gameplay TechLab is working on! The first stream will happen on March 7th, and will be followed by another at the end of the season. We will update the schedule as we get closer. Check out our Instagram for teasers of the new studio space, and keep an eye on our website for our schedule. Thanks for watching! - K.O.G and the Gameplay TechLab team

Q: Viewing shared folders (in other languages) Is there a way to easily access shared folders that have non-English names? I can see the shortcut to shared folders, but when I click it, it opens an NTFS volume in a folder that contains just the shared folder name and a text file which only contains the name of the folder and nothing more. For example, if it's C:\Users\Hlef\Shared, it opens the volume in the folder Hlef and the text file is named Shared. Is there a way to at least copy the folder or the contents? A: The closest you can get is to change the Sharing Settings of the shared folder and choose an alternate language - see here. You can then click on the new folder icon, press Ctrl-A (select all) and paste it into a Word document.

Corporate interest in film festival marketing is always present but rarely overt; Be Here Now is not the first festival to add little forms to their envelopes that carry a numerical promotion code for attendees, and this year sees the launch of few biannual competitions for film artists in the U.S. In Toronto, the Sadie-Emily Award for young people in film will pair young project teams for a stipend and an opportunity to receive mentoring and media outreach support, plus a shot at a feature film development deal at Telefilm. The Toronto International Young Screenwriters Festival recently announced limited edition, "gateway" passes that won't automatically qualify independent creators for the festival, but will instead open them up for participation in a mentoring program running throughout the festival. While the individual festivals have yet to reveal their submissions for the Echo, Bellingham's Speakeasy Film Festival got the first item on the list recently, with a note about a forthcoming half-million dollar campaign to establish "authority and opportunity" in the film industry for the Bellingham area. London's IFP last week announced the shortlist for its Digital Campaign Awards, though the festival often says it wants these kinds of awards to be left open to the public. In Los Angeles, UCLA's School of Theater, Film and Television has named one of its graduate students, Michael Wolkman, as the winner of the 2016 Honorary Edward S. Curtis Fellowships in Filmmaking, while last week, New York University's Tisch School of Arts in New York, announced their own competition for best online media campaign in the US for 2015. International Los Angeles' Hot Docs has named Gregori Chmara as best Canadian director for his film, The Zigzag Kid. Chmara previously won the jury award at Hot Docs for his documentary, The Death of Santorio Leal, in 2010. After Zigzag, Chmara will work on Senna, a concert film to be made for Senna Studios. Director F. Alexandre Granatstein (Secrets of the Forest, Rashes) is heading
