Using the formal methods of formal ontology, it enables scientists to represent and reason about entities such as proteins, drugs, genes, diseases, biomarkers, and imaging modalities. This is a web-based application where you can build formalizations of PubMed-indexed publications and biomedical ontologies. This project is intended to be useful for quick informal organization of some of your existing knowledge, but also as a way to explore and formalize your hypotheses and beliefs. The GUI is quite simple: a list of publications, a text editor to enter your formalization, save it as JSON, and read it back in. Importing data is as simple as uploading a CSV.
