whatsapp offers a free service that allows you to send messages, photos, videos and voice recordings to other smartphone users. you can also add people as contacts, share the desktop wallpaper and forward messages and phone calls between two iphone devices. an old feature of whatsapp is the ability to access your facebook messages. this is no longer the case. you need to sign in to a facebook account if you want to access your facebook messages in the app. whatsapp messenger for android is not available on the google play store for installation. you can't install or get updates directly from the play store. you must download an apk file directly from the website. if you also want to use itunes 10 backup feature, you can use in sync function to backup your android and ios device. by using this method, you can sync data from an iphone, ipad, or ipod touch to another device, or from mac to device. however, the itunes backup option is limited to apple devices. so, if you don't own a apple device, this is not a good way to back up your device. you should note that when you restore a backup, you can only restore to the same or newer os version than the one that was backed up. for example, if you were trying to backup an android 2.1 version phone to a device running a newer android version (like 3.1), you will need to download a new apk. we recommend that you try your best to backup your phones to an up-to-date device. most backup files won't work on older devices. next, choose the android device you want to back up. then find the app, and tap the backup button, select the files you want to back up to the computer, and then tap the ok button. finally, check the back up status and continue if needed. if all goes well, you'll see a notification that your backup has completed. if your device requires a new version of the whatsapp app, we suggest that you download it and check the compatibility yourself.
